The San Francisco and Atlantic Project-Corps of Engineers in Southern California—Contracts are Already Let.

By Telegranh to The Times SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 17.—(By the Asociated Press.) The Call is authority for the statement that ground will be broken inside of sixty days, and work begun on a competing transconti-nental railroad out of San Francisco. The company is said to be the Sar Francisco and Atlantic, of which Frederick Homer is president. The other officials mentioned are J. W. Eisenhult. L. F. Durand and Sir Douglas Fox of No. 28 Victoria street, London.

E. W. Fox is said to be in Southern California with a corps of engineers. It is said that a number of interested financiers registered last week at the Adobe House, San Pedro Point. It is also said that bids are now being received for the construction of the San Francisco and West Shore road, a part of the system. The reported scheme is that the new road will intercept the Atlantic and Pacific line at some point in Los Angeles or Kings county. It is also said that contracts have been let for the construction of three hundred miles of road south from San Francisco.

JACK RODGES (colored,) head brake CHRIS JACOBSON of Joliet, Ill. Both of the latter are tailors, and were injured about the head. None of the three last named were seriously hurt. The cause of the accident was the jumping off the track of the trucks of the stock-car in the middle of the train. It jumped along the ties for 200 yards, until a narrow part of the roadbed was reached, with precipitous slopes on both sides. The derailed car at this point struck some rotten ties on the west side. The ties gave way, and the whole weight of the car being and the whole weight of the car being thus placed on the edge of the slope, the roadbed gave way and slipped down the hill. The cars and track went together, and, the couplings holding the engine, it was bodily dragged after them. The engine went high in the air, and turned completely over, entirely wrecking it. The cars in the middle of the train went to the bottom of the hill, and were smashed into kin-

Death. SACRAMENTO, Dec. 17.—(By the Associated Press.) A shocking accident happened at Fishermen's Lake, about ten miles from here, this morning. A party composed of W. W. Norris, Will-Simmons, John and David Pitt were out duck shooting. After stepping from the boat to the short, John Pitt picked up a loaded gun and drew it toward him. One of the hammers caught on the forward seat of the boat and the gun was discharged within a few inches of his head.

The entire load of No. 5 shot entered near the ear and literally blew the top of his head off. The body was at once brought to town by his companions. The deceased leaves a wife and two children. He was a carpenter and an industrious young man.

Supposed Kidnaping of a Railroad Man by Tramps.

MOJAVE (Cal.,) Dec. 16.—(Special to The -Times.) A week ago last night a "wheel tapper" by the name of Robert Gibbons, working for the South-Pacific Company, suddenly disappeared, and nothing has since been seen or heard of him. Every effort to locate him on any of the trains going north or south from here have proved unavailing. He was well known to all the conductors, and trainmen, all of whom have here guestioned as to his riding south from here have proved unavaling. He was well known to all the conductors, and trainmen, all of whom have been questioned as to his riding with them. They are unable to give any clew which would tend to solve the mystery of his absence. The day previous to his disappearance, he was paid a sum of money, said to be $350, in payment for some property, of which he was the owner. He was seen to go to his house with this money on the night of its receipt, but in the morraing he was nowhere to be found, and all investigation has failed to discover any trace of him. Yesterday a posse of citizens, consisting of six men on horseback, started to search the surrounding country for him. They have not returned, and nothing can be learned as yet. It is surmised by many that some of the numerous tramps knocking about here, in some way, became cognizant of the payment of this money to Gibbons, and that during the night he was kidneped and tapen forcibly by them to some out-of-the-way place, and there made away with, for cibly by them to some out-of-the-way place, and there made away with for the purpose of securing the $350 he was known to have in his possession.

John Charlson, and Ardirus Garavoonian, were arrested, charged with an assault to kill Carabred Garavoonian. Charlson's case was tried Friday. He had sixty witnesses, and was discharged. The trial aroused much ill-feeling, and an Armeuan priest from Boston came to the city yesterday to enceavor to smooth ever the trouble.

The Armenians met in their place of worship at noon today and the appearance of the Boston priest was the signal for opening the battle. He claimed that he represented the Charlson faction, and Charlson's friends demanded that he should not preach. In a few moments a fierce battle was being waged, during which the interior of the church was wrecked. The two factions fought out into Exchange Place, and a general police call was necessary to check the riot. Ten participants were badly cut and bruised.

A Horse Show for the Midwinter Fair.

What Could Be Exhibited in the Way of Thoroughbreds.

High-bred Equines of World-wide Reputation.

An Outline of the Proposed Midwinter Fall Shooting Festival—An Attractive Programme-Sporting Notes.

A committee has been appointed by the Pacific Coast Trotting Horse Breeders' Association to report upon the advisability of holding a horse show some time during the month of February while the Midwinter Fair is attracting while the Midwinter Pair is attracting thousands daily to its wondrous exhibits, says the Breeder and Sportsman. Some of the most prominent men in the association are members of this committee, and no doubt they will give this subject a thorough investiga-

After a vivid description of the shows held in New York and Chicago in the fall of the year, Editor Layng proceeds as follows:

"The horse show under contemplation in California will, it is held, be of a different nature, for there is a total absence of the gorgeous equipages, hackneys, hurdle jumpers, and maghackneys, hurdle jumpers, and mag-nificent saddle-horses that are to be seen, not only in cities, but also in the rural districts of the East. Instead, all that can be shown are the great thor-oughbreds, trotters and pacers, whose reputations as sires or campaigners have made them noted all over the world. But it is a question whether the owners of these great ones, and especially the stallions, will care to allow them to be exhibited in February just at the be-ginning of the breeding season.

stallons, will care to allow them to be exhibited in February just at the beginning of the breeding season.

"There is no doubt that such horses as Ormonde, Salvator, Islington, Sir Modred, Cyrus, Brutus, Flambeau, Peel, Loyalist, Clieveden, El. Rio. Rey. Joe Hooker, Three Cheers, Wildidle, Chesterfield, Idalume, Morello, Old Marian (the great dam of thoroughbreds,) Guy Wilkes, Sable Wilkes, Hambletonian Wilkes, Pledmont, Aznovor, Beautiful Bells, Sontag Mohawk, Stelhway, Charles Derby, Direct, Directum, Diablo, W. Wood, Silkwood, Minnehaha, Boodle, Whips, and the many other great ones that might be named, besides the recently-purchased hackneys of J. Parrott, Jr., the Orloff horses, Sperry's German coach stallions, the Oakwood Park Farm's Cleveland bays, and at least a score of other great horses and mares would prove exceedingly attractive."

horses and mares would prove exceedingly atractive."

The committee in charge is composed of gentlemen well versed in the knowledge of horses, and they are giving the subject careful deliberation and an expectant public is awaiting their decision. If they decide to have it undertaken, then every one will strive to make it a grand success, and the advantages this State possesses over all others for horse-breeding and developing will be shown by the entire press of the State.

MIDWINTER FAIR SHOOTING FESTIVAL

The festival will be opened on Sun-Fabruary 4, 1894, with a grand day, February 4, 1894, with a grand pageant, to be composed of all shooting organizations in the State. A picnic and jollification will be held at Shell Mound Park, Packaley on the first and and jollification will be held at Shell Mound Park, Berkeley, on the first and second days of the festival, and the festival will conclude with a grand ball to be held at San Francisco.

In the event of inclement weather the parade and picnic will be postponed, but the shooting carnival will be commenced and continued as per schedule time, rain or shine.

The shooting will commence on Sunday, February 4. 1894, will continuent day and thereafter will be continued every Wednesday and Sunday until the conclusion of the festival. Sunday, March 25.

All prizes will be distributed at the ball, which is to be the concluding features.

All prizes will be distributed at the ball, which is to be the concluding feature of the festival.

One of the targets to be shot at will be known as the Golden Gate target. It will be a twelve-inch circular, black with a three-inch center (white flag.) one and one-half inch intermediate (blue flag.) and three-inch outside ring (red flag.) The entrance fee for 100 shots at this target will be $25, and the prizes will be awarded to those who make the most red flags.

As a souvenir of the festival, a solid "Golden Gate medal" will be awarded to each marksman upon his making the first flag, either red, white or blue. In this competition, prizes aggregating $500 will be awarded.

The Midwinter Fair target will contain twenty-five three-quarter-inch rings, and for each entry of three shots it will be charged. There will be $2500 worth of prizes, consisting of a large assortment of valuable gold and silverware; goblets, jewelry, etc., presented to the Verein by its friends and admirers.

ware; goblets, jewelry, etc., presented to the Verein by its friends and admirers.

The marksmen attaining the best score will have the privilege of first selection, the second best comes next and so on until all the prizes are taken.

There will be a point target on the same principle as the Golden Gate target, at which entries of six shots each will cost $1, and prizes amounting to $1000 will be forthcoming. $500 to be divided among "best centers" and $500 among those making the most points. The man target will represent the upper part of a man's body, and will be divided into forty perpendicular lines. The space petween the two center lines will count twenty, and the others decline from these to the right and left down to one. Cost of the entry, three shots, will be $1, and there will be cash prizes to the amount of $500.

Then there will be a ring target.

Then there will be a ring target, with four-shot entries $1, and $500 in cash prizes, while the marksman who attains the highest average on all targets (best centers only excluded) will be proclaimed King of the Shooting Festival, and will be awarded a diamond king medal of the value of $75.

There will be military team shooting, under the immediate supervision of Gen. John H. Dickinson, Col. R. D.

Laidlaw and Col. Thomas F. Barry. The prizes will be $150, in trophies, and $100 in cash. The rules and regulations of the fes-tival are as follows:

(Under Los Angeles National Bank.)
Office open from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

We have leased the entire large and elegant basement of the California Bank building, cor. Second and Broadway, and will, about January the 1st, 1894, remove our offices from the cor. of First and Spring to that piace. This will enable us to do what has for a long time been our earnest desire—to fit up large and convenient offices and waiting-rooms for our broad and ever-increasing business. While our location has been all that we could ask for, our room has been for years entirely inadequate and cramped, but the California Bank basement is a daisy. Call around today and see it if in the city, and whether you do this or not, ask yourself why, though Petty Hummel & Co. have been weighed in the baliance for the past six years, that they are stronger and more deeply imbedded in their line of trade, in the public mind, than ever before? Your reflections can only be in our favor.

Experienced vine and tree pruner, $25 etc.; boy for dairy, to work for his board and go to school; 6-mule or horse teams for plowing; mechanics, ranch hands, laborers, and all male help, cordially invited to call; we will have many orders to select from.

THE HIGH-WATER MARK PASSED.

Two weeks ago The Times reached what was up to that date the highwater mark in the number of columns of advertising printed, viz., 87 columns of paid matter of all classes.

All we want is for him to lick that fellow Mitchell until he can't sit up, and keep the pre-liminaries out of the newspapers.

ATTRACTIONS TONIGHT.—Charles L. Davis appears at the Los Angeles Theater tonight in his popular downeast play, "Alvin Joslin." It has been several years since Mr. Davis was seen in this city, but there are still vivid recollections of the hilarious and healthy fun which permeates the atmosphere of "Alvin Joslin" and those who formerly rollicked in its humor will be glad to do so some more. The Burbank puts on "Hamlet" tonight, with Darrell Vinton in the role of the melancholy Dane. Mr. Vinton has evinced marked ability in the legitimate drama, and his "Hemlet" has been pronounced a scholarly study of that great part. This actor created something of a sensation in the role in San Francisco a short time since, and a repetition of his success may be expected here. The same bill for the entire week. It is to be hoped that the authoritie continue to try Chris Evans for his various murders until a jury is nd with a nerve for hanging. THE CITY COUNCIL.

Matters That Will Come Up at This Morning's Session.

A Lively Debate Anticipated Over the Requi sitions for Repairs on the Fire Engines-The Water Report.

It is thought scarcely probable that the Water Supply Committee will present a report at today's meeting of the City Council in reference to the esti-mated value of the City Water Company's plant.

As Engineer Vincent has not yet Sewer Committee about the faulty work done on the Mackey & Young secommittee will not present a report in reference to it until next week. The matter of the proposed widening of First street, between Main and Los Angeles streets, was last week referred Angeles streets, was last week referred to the City Attorney for an opinion as to some technical legal points. Should the attorney report favorably today and should no other similar technicalities be raised there seems to be a reasonable probability that the Council can and will proceed to deny the protest and pass the final ordinance ordering the widening.

will proceed to deny the protest and pass the final ordinance ordering the widening.

There may be a brief season of liveliness when the Supply Committee reports without recommendation the requisitions for certain supplies and repairs for the fire department, as mentioned in yesterday's Times. The members of the committee claim that to report without recommendation is virtually the same as to report with their disapproval, while other members of the Council say that it is not, and that the committee should report either one way or the other. Should this point be raised there may be some loud talk over it.

The question of whether the City Jail shall be reinsured was, last Monday, referred to the Financial Committee. The committee's report and the Council's action on such report will be awaited with a good deal of interest as it is likely to establish a precedent. Should the Council, therefore, decide not to renew the insurance on the City Jail then the policy of insuring most of the city buildings will probably be changed so as not to insure many of them as at present. Of course, the insurance men are opposed to any such course, but public opinion seems to have it that the city can better afford to stand its own insurance than to pay the premiums, so large a part of which go to meet the running expenses of insurers in the recort of the City in the

The matter of the proposed opening of Figueroa street, together with the motion of Councilman Munson to open Kipp street, between Seventh and Orange streets, and pay whatever was just to the property. whatever was just to the property-owners there, was referred last Monday to a committee, consisting of Messrs. There will be an opportunity for any of the Councilmen, who so desire, to move to instruct the City Attorney to present an ordinance which shall place the granting of restaurant licenses under the control of the Police Commission, the same as the granting of salcon licenses is now under control of that body. This will be a step toward putting matters in shape so that undesirable places may be kept closed where now the proprietors hide under the protection of restaurant licenses. Coast dallies are about to put in linotypes, and for each there must stepaside at least three men, who must types, and for each there must step aside at least three men, who must find employment in other directions. Some of these may get into other indoor employment, and some as travelers, while some others will go to work on farms, perhaps. It is a fact that more farming needs to be done, all over the Middle and Western States, and, when the "prints" get pushed aside by machines, they may not find it so bad a thing to take hold of the plow, the rake and the hoe, for one class of labor is just as honorable as another, and they would be more intelligent workmen than those who have never "slung type." What we started out to say, in this digressive item, was, that The Times is a great newspaper—better, for its local opportunities, than those of San Francisco. Now, let the Eagle scream!

better, for its iocal opportunities of Saan Francisco. Now, let the those of Saan Francisco. Now, let the Eagle Scream!

(Remarks: The idea that the line-type operating and typographical force of The Times is small, since the introduction of machine composition, is erroneous. This establishment till continues to employ a force in its mechanical departments considerably larger than that of any rival newspaper office. The work has been increased, instead of being diminished.—Ed. Times.)

CHURCH RECORD. PULPIT AND PEW

Sunday Services at the Churches.

Confirmation at St. John's Episcopal Church.

The Largest Class in California in Two Years.

Eloquent Sermon by Bishop Nichol Evangelist Cairns at the First Methodist Church - Pacific Gospel Union.

St. John's Episcopal Church on West

Adams street, was the scene last even-ing of a most solemn and beautiful confirmation service, the class presented by the rector, Rev. B. W. R. Tayler, for confirmation by Rt. Rev. William Ford Nichols, bishop of the Diocese of California, being the largest presented for two years in Southern California. It numbered thirty-three, many of them adults. The full choral service was one of the most impres-sive which has ever taken place within the church, and was conducted by the rector, assisted by Rev. Henderson Judd of Epiphany Church, East Los Angeles. The church was filled to overflowing, every available point for standing room being taken long before the hour of service, at which time con-tinuous lines of people were arriving and forced to depart.

Bishop Nichols's sermon was simple, strong and eloquent—a sermon to ap-peal to the best in every hearer. It was drawn from St. Luke, xv, a portion of the eighteenth verse: "I will arise and go to my father," and was addressed with special reference to the class about to be confirmed.

This parable of the prodigal son is particularly a man's parable, the bishop

This parable of the prodigal son is particularly a man's parable, the bishop said.

It is the father dealing with his son, and the son with his stather. The son goes into a far country, and brings trouble upon himself, and the father lets him cast himself loose. Were it his mother, she would never, if possible, let him go out beyond her communication. It is well sometimes to get at some of these touching points in the Bible that appeal to the tender sentiment of men, to the finer fibers of their nature, as these sentiments are found in the woman and the child.

This parable causes something of the progress and power of men to stand out in a strong light. There were just three phases of experience in that turning point of the prodigal son, and they all come at once: First, he began to be in want; second, he came to himself, which indicates the progressive stage; and third, he said: "I will arise and go to my father."

This man had the feeling, the sensibility in his heart. It had not to be put there. He had it. And this is the class of men the minister of Christ's gospel has to deal with in all time. The great underlying truth of the church is to go. That is one stage of man's character. He feels manifold, complex, forces at work in him. and he begins to be in want. That is the first stage, and the prodigal reached that when he thought of his home, and of what that home could offer. He then became a man of thought; a thinking man. Yet there are various kinds of thinking men; but ninety-nine men out of every hundred are thinking of themselves and their own present needs. They are thinking the gray into their hair, and the wrinkles on their brow, and the ache into their heart, thinking of the things close to themselves.

The prodigal passed a stage beyond that. He not only had the want, he felt the ache, but he passed to the highest act of his manhood, and his will asserted itself, and then he said, "I will arise and go." He had passed beyond thinking, to the stage of action, and that indicates his progress. This man's strongest point, in the church it is his weakest point. Look down through all ages, and you will find that it is the man's will which is such a factor in, secular life; yet, the ministry is charged by Almighty God to bring that will into subjection, in order that there may result a superb working in the church of God.

The ministry does not tell man that he can accompilsh what he wants by his will, but that there are certain steps that he must take, and that, taking them, God comes to him and helps him along. These steps are baptism, confirmation, communion. These are necessars to worship. This is God's way pointed out to us His plan for us; the means by which we are to develop our powers and our character to the utmost: to have the grace, and the symmetry, and the beauty of one who has been with Jesus. Then, only, can we say, as the supreme sovereignty of our will—Thy will be done!

Bishop Nichols paid a warm tribute to the faithful and efficient work of the rector of the parish, and to the wonderful momentum which such a body as the class confirmed must give to carrying on the labors of the church.

as the class confirmed must give to carrying on the labors of the church.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH.

The gospel meeting of the Young Women's Christian Association was held in the First Methodist Episcopal Church, yesterday, and was an occasion of rare enjoyment, the speaking and singing being by Rev. George Robert Cairns.

The subject was "Ruth, the Moabitess," and the scriptural reading from the book of Ruth was by Mrs. Z. D. Mathies, president.

Miss Moise, general secretary, introduced Mr. Cairns, who sang "Believe, and keep on believing." After prayer he spoke of Boaz as a type of Christ, and Ruth of the church. Ruth was a Moabitess, a heathen by birth, but after knowing the sweetness of a Christian husband and household, never again to be content with the heathen life. So when Naomi urged her to stay with her own people she made reply in those wondrous words: "Entreat me not to leave thee, or to return from following after thee; . . thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God; . . the Lord do so to me and more also, it aught but death part thee and me."

He spoke much more of the lesson of Ruth, and then he applied it to the Young Women's Christian Association, saying, "that as Ruth clung to the light when she received it and would not go back to darkness, so should young women, lifted to their present position by the power of Christ, count it is the greatest honor that could be their's to show Him forth to the world. God might have sent an angel to herald salvation, but He chose instead to use humanity. He asks young women to take His name to merge all interests into His service and leave the world's companionship for the sweeter one with Him."

A large audience listened attentively and the service closed by singing the Doxology and a benediction by Mr. Cairns.

MEMORIAL BAPTIST CHURCH.

"Life's Chorus," was the theme upon which the pastor, Rev. Arthur Rider, which the pastor, Rev. Arthur Rider, preached yesterday morning at the Memorial Baptist Church. From a recent study of the text, II Peter I. 5-7, he presented as a preferred reading: "And besides this giving all dilligence—chorus with your faith, man,y character," etc. Suggesting that the word usually rendered "add" was not a mathematical term but a musical one, meaning to chorus or lead a chorus. Thus, as in Athens, a choragus was bidden gather a chorus to render some musical composition; so the apostle urges the Christian to summon all his powers to chorus forth God's plan of love to which He desires human lives to give audible expression.

The keynote of this chorus is faith.

sires human lives to give audible expression.

The keynote of this chorus is faith. The keynote of all harmony in home life, business life, and religious life is faith. Then filling out the harmony, chorus—"with faith, manly character; with manly character, knowledge, and with knowledge, self-control, and with self-control, endurance, and with endurance godliness, and with godliness, brotherly love, and with brotherly love, universal love."

For the soul who choruses these Godgiving powers to voice God's message, God will chorus the choirs of heaven to welcome him into the "everlasting kingdom of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ."

EAST SIDE BAPTIST CHURCH. Yesterday morning Rev. W. W. Tinker, the superintendent of missions Tinker, the superintendent of missions in Southern California and Arizona, for the Baptist denomination, preached at the East Side Baptist Church, of which Rev. George E. Dye is pastor. Mr. Tinker took as his subject a theme appropriate to the number of new converts that have recently been added to the church as a result of the evangulistic service of Rev. G. Robert Cairns, at present conducting a successful at present conducting a successful meeting in the First Baptist Church in meeting in the First Baptist Church in this city. The theme was "Character of Building." Several passages of scrip-ture were recited as bases for the thoughts presented, notable among them being, the utterance of Christ in the Sermon on the Mount, regarding building upon the rock and on the sand.

The speaker emphasized in the outset the importance of avoiding the popplar error of believing that a nominal relation to a church was all that was and that mere profession of plar error of believing that a nominal relation to a church was all that was required, and that mere profession of faith in Christ as a speculative savior was sufficient. These errors lay at the root of much of the inefficiency of the Christian church today. The world has scriptural authority for demanding more than this of the Christian. The great obligations of the follower of Christ were only begun with the public profession. That was merely the oath of allegiance. Further, we are not only expected to do for Christ, but also to be. The ideal of Christ is to be worked out in each believer. Christ has the right to expect of us at least the same thought that we exercise in the matters of minor importance in life. Men are spending time and money and thought in the construction of plans for buildings of all kinds, and yet how many today have lifte thought as to the design of their life.

Appropriate and telling illustration Appropriate and telling illustrations were given the importance of selecting carefully a right plan in the building of this eternal habitation; one's character—a plan adapted to its uses and expected duration. The site on which to build is of the utmost consideration; its relation to other things about it and its security, to say nothing of our title to it. The Christian ino "squatter" upon moral or spiritual territory. He has time-honored right to that upon which he builds. The "foundation" was laid for him. Alas! the number who adopt without thought, any spot upon which to erect that characteristics. ny spot upon which to erect that char cter that is to stand forever or be to acter that is to stand forever or be to-tally worthless. Selection of the mate-rials of which the building is to be composed calls for the utmost care. It was shown from the scripture that many of the so-called glittering charac-teristics so sought after by many Chris-tians, such as the more conspicuous graces and "gifts" of the spirit were not as abiding as those gentler quali-ties of soul that are within the reach of every child of God, however humble, and that serve to make the world better because of our living in it. Such and that serve to make the world better because of our living in it. Such is the testimony of Paul in the thirteenth chapter of First Corinthians, in his wonderful panegyric on love.

Our characters are not only to endure the trials of this life, but we find frequent intimations that there is to come a test of searching power. Our lives should be thus fortified against all possible emergencies. Like the ship that is built for the ordinary demands of commerce, but at the same time is provided with equipments for the storm that may come at any time.

Striking illustrations of storm were given, and a tribute to those who weathering all the gales of life at last anchor safely in the harbor of eternal rest. The encouraging fact was brought out as a close that the provisions of divine wisdom gave assurance that the successful endurance of the ordeals would result in commensurate reward. Witness the promises in Revelation, to "him that overcometh."

PACIFIC GOSPEL UNION.

The free breakfast at the Pacific Gospel Union was thoroughly enjoyed vesterday morning by over two hundred men, the hall being crowded to its utmost capacity. The service following was one of great power. A. W. Hare spoke from the parable of the Prodigal Son, and many hearts were troubled, as the picture of God and love was presented to them. A large number requested prayer, and nine professed conversion.

The gospel wagon went out as usual, holding a service at the corner of First and Los Angeles streets. Much interest listened to the testimonies.

Rev. Edwin M. Fretz of Vincent's Methodist Episcopal Church preached in the evening at the hall, from the Proverb: "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." The music was especially attractive, consisting of quartettes, contraits solo by Mrs. J. B. Brown, soprano solo by Mrs. J. B. Brown, soprano solo by Mrs. J. S. CENTRAL M. E. CHURCH.

At the Central Methodist Episcopal Church, vesterday. Rev. George W.

At the Central Methodist Episcopal Church, yesterday, Rev. George W. White, presiding elder of Los Angeles District, preached an eloquent sermontaking for his text Matthew xii, 20: "A bruised reed shall He not break, and smoking flax shall He not quench, till He send forth judgment unto victory."

and smoking flax shall He not queenen, till He send forth judgment unto victory."

The character of God, he said, is often misrepresented and not fully understood. When Christ said: "I came that ye might have life," He said it out of the great love that He had for mankind. There are many things which we ought to be afraid of, but God is not one of them. "He knoweth our frame, He remembereth that we are dust." We approach God often as though we thought that He must be reconciled to us, when Christ's mission to earth was to reconcile the world to God. One thing is certain, God's disposition toward us is one of love. When we do right we often feel that we have done something to benefit God, but we are only doing our duty to ourselves, and following the course which will help us to reach our own highest good. The great difficulty is not to teach men to have faith in God, but to have faith in humanity.

In humanity.

How many cycles must pass away before we shall cease being afraid of our best friend? The very first sound over Bethlehem was, "Be not afraid." Again, He says; "God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son that whosoever believeth in Him should not weeker. ten Son that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everiasting life."
In partaking of the sacrament of the Lord's Supper, it is the incoming of God's spirit into the heart that is the real sacrament.

Do you want to know God more fully? Do you want to love Him better?

Then come, trusting in the everlasting arms.

Do not come to display your perfect Christian life, but because you want the Lord to come in and feed your hungry soul, and fill you full of His love. Let us think always of His great and wonderful love to us.

BAREFACED FRAUD.

Children Victimized by a "Fake" Entertainment.

A Grand Distribution of Presents Which Did Not Materialize—No Toys, But a Few Worthless Cards and Blotting Pads.

One of the most bare-faced petty rauds ever perpetrated in the city was consummated Saturday afternoon, some five hundred or more unsuspecting chil-dren being the victims. During the past week several individuals industriously circulated alluring cards among the school children of the city, announcing a "scholars' toy matinee" at Y. M. C. A. Hall, Saturday afternoop. On the reverse side of the card was an attractive list of articles suitable for Christmas presents, as follows: "Boys' and girls' list: Wagons, roller skates, wheelbarrows, writing books, tool boxes, blackboards, writing desks, large dolls, small dolls, pocket knives, doll carriages, copybooks, balls and bats, motto cards, picture cards, etc., etc.

"Ladies' and misses' list: Tollet sets, manicure sets, writing materials, book marks, card cases, autograph albums, photo albums, pocketbooks, inkstandsportfolios, Whitinan's candy, souvenirs, etc., etc."

It was further set forth that "one of each of the articles will be presented to every one," "one thousand presents for all," "large and more costly presents for the older ones," "to high-school scholars, our performance and presents for all," "large and more costly presents for the older ones," "to high-school scholars, our performance and presents are calculated to please you as well as the little ones—if you come you will not regret it," "bring this ticket and 10 cents."

or course any one on reading the card should have seen that it was a fraud on the face of it, especialy as it has been frequently worked before, but children are not supposed to know everything, and the fact that the "entertainment" was to be given in the Y.M.C.A. Hall had the effect of inspiring confidence. Consequently the hall was crowded. It is needless to say that the performance was a cheap sleight-of-hand exhibition, with a dime museum "Punch and Judy," and a very indifferent ventriloculst. A few cheap albums were distributed, which were soon exhausted, and ninety-nine hundredths of the children were given cheap lithographs of public buildings and other subjects, which can be bought for perhaps $2 or $3 a thousand. At the conclusion of the entertainment the children filed out to get their presents, but the affable young fakir had "skipped," and they departed for their homes empty-handed, many of them in tears over their disappointment.

Secretary Ball of the Y.M.C.A., when asked about the matter, sald that he had rented the men the hall under the impression that they would give a legitimate performance. He did not read their cards carefully, and did not discover the "fake" until it was too late to stop it.

As these people will probably try to cover the "fake" until it was too late to stop it.

As these people will probably try to work the same game in other cities in this end of the State, it will be well to keep a look-out for them and see that it is not repeated.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 16.—(To the Editor of The Times.) I wish to call, your attention to a fraud that has been practiced on the school children of this city. A card, a copy of which I inclose, has been freely distributed during the past week and my children were all excitement to attend the "Scholars' Toy Matinse" to be held at the Y.M.C.A. Hall. This afternoon I twok them, and a worse fake performance I never attended. The programme was not carried out, and the distribution of toys was a farce. A few small, worthless cards and blotting-cases was all that materialized of the "grand distribution." Now, what I complain of, is that I think that those in authority at the Y.M.C.A. should have found out something of the responsibility of the parties putting forward this entertainment, which, to say the least of it, was not exactly altogether moral. Witness the different articles of girls' underwear that were juggled out of a hat. I was once a boy myself, and felt sorry for the children, some of whom were in tears, and disappointment was depicted on every face. I thought, at the time the card was first shown me, that the Y.M.C.A. were getting up something to please the children, as of course 10 cents would not buy any of the articles to be given away, and they certainly should have exercised a little more care and judgment before letting their hall to any outside fake entertainment. I hope they will think of this in the future. There were at least five hundred onlidren present. Yours truly.

San Diego Merchants Tricked by a Handsome Woman.

Rented a Furnished House and Bought Goos Shipped Out of the City.

The San Diego Union of Sunday pub-lishes the following: "Two weeks ago a remarkably hand-some woman, of refined manners and elegant attire, arrived in the city, ac companied by two little children. She engaged a cottage on First street of R. D. McClean, and agreed to pay the first quarter's rent, $120, on the 15th. Her name, she said was Mrs. H. L. Post, and her husband was a prominent electrician of Seattle. She was so quit and ladylike that the real estate men was only too glad to carry the baby to the furniture store, the baby to the furniture store, where she picked out an elegant carriage, high chair, etc., arranging for payment at a later date.

"Mrs. Post engaged a servant girl, and drove out almost every day, procuring a double carriage of the Fifth-avenue stables. On the strength of the turn-out, which she incidentally mentioned was her own, and her winning ways she obtained credit for clothing. ways sine obtained credit for clothing, diamond rings, groceries, millinery, furniture, brica-brac, beer, flowers, shoes, jewelry, hats, suits for her children, and lots of other plunder from leading merchants, only two or three, so far as heard from, Exaping from her wiles. In a short time yesterday a Union reporter secured the names of the following houses, all of which have bills against Mrs. Post for great or small sums: Parisian Suit and Cloak Company, M. A. Lesem, Turner & Son, M. W. Jenks, K. C. Naylor Jewelry Company, George W. Marston, W. G. Walz Company, D-street jewelry store, Mrs. James Russell, Fifth-avenue stables, John R. Seifert, S. J. Sill, Norman-Jacoby Grocery Company, and A. Dorsey Company. Their claims amount to over $225, which, with the $120 claimed for rent, show that Mrs. Post was not idle during her brief stay. Several more dealers are yet to be heard from. Among those who were approached for goods, but-were not caught are L. Speyer, Barker & Son, Hamilton & Co., and the Chadbourne Furniture Company."

"The latter firm sent a fine, $40 baby carriage and chair to Mrs. Post's residence on First street yesterday morning, but found only the servant girl in the empty house. The girl was in tears, and said she was afraid her mistress had flown. Before many minutes, the real-estate man and other creditors heard the rumor, and a quick investigation followed. Then it was learned that Mrs. Post had sent all her plunder to San Bernardino by express. The servant had been excused the day before, and, during her absence, Mrs. Post told her that she was going to get the children's pictures taken, and left the house.

"It was found that she drove direct to the depot, and bought a ticket for Los Angeles, giving the name of Hattie Brown, and left on Friday afternoon. When the real-estate man learned this, he rushed back to see if Mrs. Post had taken anything upon which he could obtain a warrant for theft, but the woman had shrewdily left everything inaginable. The girl herself was left unpaid, and her f bills."

So far as known, the woman did not stop in this city, as no complaints have been made to the police concerning her. She is now probably in San Bernardino, or some town in that vicinity, and the authorities have been notified to keep a look-out for her. If it can be done, a complaint will be sworn out persitude her in San Diego, and she will

Down on Hope street, between Sixth and Seventh, stands a deserted house. At least, it is deserted to all outward appearances, for the windows have been broken in, the doors pulled from their hinges, and the rickety steps that lead up to the front and rear entrances three tentrances down entirely when up to the front and rear entrances threaten to break down entirely when any one attempts to make his way into the place. Notwithstanding the air of solitude and decay pervading the premises, the house has a queer tenant, who can be called human only so far as he is formed after the fashion of a man. What his name is no one knows, but the few who have had occasion to address him all say that he is called "Jimmy."

The man is old and grizzled, his uncu The man is old and grizzled, his uncut hair and whiskers hanging in a tangled mass about his neck and face, showing that they have not been touched by scissors or razor for many a year. house have made complaint to the health department to have the premses examined, as they believed the man's housekeeping was a menace to the community, but they have, as yet, been unable to establish the fact that a nuisance is being maintained, and so the old man lives on undisturbed, venturng forth just at dusk in search of food. house have made complaint to the

Frequently, at a late hour of the night, a pedestrian, hurrying homeward, will notice a bent figure leaning over a garbage barrel, as if searching for something. If he looks closely, he would see the person fish out a piece of vegetable of other refuse among the swill, and devour it with much apparent enjoyment and relish. The man is "Jimmy," and that is the way he takes his meals. As soon as he has eaten all he wants from the barrels, he gathers up enough of the stuff to last him during the following day, and returns under cover of the darkness to his rooms. And such rooms as they are.

Knowing the complaint had been made regarding this singular freak, a Times reporter went out to the old house yesterday afternoon to investigate. Mounting the rear steps, which in itself was something of a feat to accomplish, the hall was entered. The floors there were covered with dirt and filth, and the doors to all of the rooms on the left of the passengerway were missing, but at the right a board closed up the entrance. Here, evidently, was where the human curiosity was secreted. To a knock on the door, the response "hello" was made in a cracked sort of a voice, and, as the door was pushed open, the being inside roused himself up and ambled along out from under a curtain-like arrangement into full view.

There were two rooms there which the man occupied, and the sight they presented was a curious one indeed. Rags and debris were piled up indiscriminately about the floors, and the odor pervading the "apartments" was anything but agreeable.

A makeshift for a bunk was arranged in one corner of the farther room, with ragged curtains hung around it. It was from this place that "Jimmy" had crawled when first aroused. A tin pan, in which a fire had been made, served the offices of a stove, and a heap of decaying vegetables was piled up near by. The filth and disorder was something frightful, and it seemed but little wonder to the reporter that complaint had been made against the occupant of the house.

had been made against the occupant of the house.

Neighbors stated that they were fearful that the bullding would be set on fire by its queer tenant, as there was neither chimney nor stove in the rooms, and the fire constantly burning in the old pan threw sparks around which might at any time start a blaze. The old man is harmless enough, but his mode of living is far from being a credit to a civilized community, and should be investigated by the proper authorities without delay.

The owner of the premises, it is stated, has been appealed to to have the old man moved out of the house, and the building either pulled down or put in proper repair for human habitation; but he has refused to do so, as he says the singular old man is doing no harm, and it would be an act of cruelty to throw him out. At any rate, the health officer will probably make an investigation today, and, if nothing else can be done, some one of the neighbors will swear to a complaint, charging the old man with maintaining a nuisance, when he will be taken in charge, and some provision made for caring for him.

A NOBLE MAN.

Sketch of the Late William L. Banning of St. Paul

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 15.—(To the Editor of The Times.) Last winter, at Wilmington, Cal., I had the pleasure of making the acquaintance of Hon. William L. Banning of St. Paul, Minn., the who had come to sojourn for a time in our delightful Southern Californian clirate, for the betterment of his iman paired health. He was the guest of mr. and Mrs. J. B. Banning.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. C. FLETCHER.

In have rarely met with a more interesting and intelligent man. As I sat with him on several inclement days before the genial fire of the large Banning mansion, in Wilmington, it was the greatest pleasure to listen to him converse concerning the distinguished men of a former generation, whom he had known, such as Clayton of Delaware, United States Senator and afterwards Secretary of State in Gen. Taylor's administration; David Paul Brown, the leading lawyer of Philadelphia; Michael MacMorton, the greatest editor of his day, in the "City of Brotherly Love," and many others, whose names stand high on our country's roll of fame. It seemed like reading a page of American history.

I was pained last week to learn that Hon. William L. Banning had gone to join the good and great men of whom he had so interestingly discoursed to me at Wilmington. On the 26th ult. he died, at the age of 77, in St. Paul, Minn. During the last month of his iliness he was surrounded by all his family, a portion of whom had come from their distant homes, in Massachusetts, South Carolina and Southern California, to join the devoted wife and daughter at home, in effectionate attentions to him who was so soon to be called hence. The daughter who resides in California is Mrs. Joseph B. Banning of this city.

Hon. William L. Bannig was more than an ordmary man. He was a lawyer whose ability was early recognized at the bar of Philadelphia, where he had removed from his Delaware home. More than once he represented his adopted city in the Pennsylvania Legislature. As early as 1855 he went West and settled at St. Paul, Minn. He fully identified himself with the interests of Minnesota, and as financier he became one of the foremost men of St. Paul. He had a clear, cool head, so that when any important financial proposition came from what quarter it might, he calmly looked at things for the future; and though often in the minority he had the satisfaction on some very grave questions to see in which she with other States had fallen, Mr. Banning was one

We cut the prices on every Cloak, on every Shawl, on every Cape, on every article now on sale in the Cloak Department. The original price is on each garment, and no claim will be made that a certain Cloak you may want has already been reduced. The prices will be reduced from the marks still on the Cloak, whether you ask for it or not.

THE COST OF EATING

It Covers a Wide Range of Prices.

In the Hotels and Restaurants of Los Angeles

It is Possible to Live on 10 Cents

as Many Dollars May Be Expended the Same Way Without Any Serioua Trouble—Some Pointers.

The matter of eating being one of the most essential features of living in this portion of the country, as well as in other less-fayored sections, a splance at the prices at which the necessities of a hungry man may be obtained may not be inappropriate at this time. The touristic arriving daily in large numbers, will naturally want to know about what it will cost him for a sufficient quantity of food satisfactory to the wants of the inner man, while the man of small means, or the unfortunate, temporarily out of enaployment, is interested in husbanding his diminishing resources until the tide tugns; and then, again, the philanin this portion of the country, as well employment, is interested in husbanding his diminishing resources until the tide turns; and then, again, the philanthropist may desire to know something of the method by which the greatest muchber may be fed at the smallest cost, especially if he contemplates doing something in a practical way toward relieving "the wants of the poor, who are always with us.".

The number and variety of the restaurants in this city may prove a surprise to most of the Easterners paying this Coast their first visit. There are the fashionable eating-houses for those of ample means, who may, if they so diefire, consume anywhere from $1 to $10 worth at a sitting; there are the places on both the American and the European plans, where those who wish may procure satisfactory meals at moderate prices, and there are, also, places where the wolf can be at least temporarily appeased, if not kept away, at small cost.

At some twenty or more of the restaurants and backles.

temporarily appeased, if not kept away, at small cost.

At some twenty or more of the restaurants tand hotels a good meal, well cooked, and plenty of it, may be had for 25 cents. At this price, a choice sis afforded from quite an extensive bill of fare. One may have soup, followed by reast meats, fish or chops, with vegetables, bread and side dishes. The dessert will usually include a choice of three or four kinds of puddings and pies, together with ice cream. There are a large number of eating-houses conducted on the European plan, where a person may order and pay for only such articles as he wants. Of this sort there is, perhaps, the greater variety of prices and qualities.

One of the features in the restaurant line in this city is the number of eating-places which it is found profitable to keep open all night. This makes it very convenient for those who find it necessars, to be up until late, and who want to eat between midnight and morning.

There are a number of restaurants on who want to eat between midnight and morning.

There are a number of restaurants on the American plan where good meals may be had for 15 or 20 cents each. At such houses the service and also the bill of fare will naturally not be so claborate. At the same time one may get a very good meal at those prices.

Coming down in price, but not altogether so in quality, one may have sufficient to eat for a very small sum and at least at one place a good stew with bread may be purchased for 5 cents while coffee and doughnuts can be had at the same figure. The coffee fills a large-sized cup and is as good or better than that furnished at some of the higher-priced places. At the same figure one may have a bowl of mush and milk or a plate of beans and bread. These articles appear well cooked and are palatable. It is stated that quite a large number of people of limited means live in this manner at an average cost of 30 cents per day. For a man who is out of work, and whose means are running low there is an opportunity to live at small cost. He may get a fair breakfast consisting of a sandwich and coffee for 5 cents, and for dinner have a stew with bread for the same amount. After eating a supper of mush and milk for another 5 cents he will have expended 15 cents for what he has eaten-during the day. He may vary his diet somewhat so-as to avoid, a monotony and, yet not be to any greater expense; or he could undoubtedly if forced to do so subsist on one less meal per day and thus cut the daily expense down to 10 cents. Of course, no one would like the idea of being limited to the above figures as a permanent thing, but it will be seen that life may be sustained, when actually necessary, at a very small outlay of the coin of the realm. norning.

Durability of Tin Roofs.

(New York Metal:) The question of the endurance of tin roofing is one which has had some discussion and less satisfactory conclusions any other connected with the roofing trade. Along the seashore a tin roof, without the protection of paint, will last about as long as it would take to without the protection of paint, will last about as long as it would take to eat it up if put in a weak pickle. Durthe rainy months of the fall and spring it will get a coating of red rust inside of two weeks, and in a month will become so covered with rust that no trace of tin ean be seen upon it.

In the suburbs of New York and in the uptown districts it is a practice among roofers to expose roofs in this wax, until thoroughly rusted. In some of the dry interior portions of the country tin roofs, without protection of paint, have been reported in use for years, with the tin still bright and perfect. They are undoubtedly so far away from salt water that no salt is present in the atmosphere, and probably the amount of carbonic acid present at the same time is at a minimum. Rusting of iron takes place only in the presence of moisture and an acid. If we remove the moisture the rean, is safe. If we keep the iron in an alkalline condition it is also safe from rust. The effect of lime on a tin roof is probably well known to every tinner. A few handfuls scattered about the roof will keep the tin bright for weeks after the remainder has disappeared under a coating of red rust.

The use of green sheathing boards, the placing of tin on roofs where acid vapors arise through the building, the use of acid tars and acid tar papers are among the causes to which the rapid destruction of tin roofs may be charged.

Mr. Forman, who came in on the afternoon train from San Francisco, reported the building going along as fast as it can be pushed. The roof will be on by Wednesday, and the contractor thinks that by Saturday exhibits can be stored.

Wednesday, and the contractor thinks that by Saturday exhibits can be stored in it.

Some discussion ensued as to an addi-tion for a storeroom, certain changes in decreasy, additional windows, partitions, tc., which will incur an expense of about 700, as estimated by the contractor. Mr. Stimson moved that this estimate

Mr. Stimson moved that this estimate of extras be accepted. Carried unanimously.

The matter of insurance was brought up. The rate of 5 per cent. will be charged for six months. Mr. Silent moved that that no insurance be made at present, and that future insurance be left in the

Mr. Forman stated that it is found impossible to mix, with/the cement, the strawberry or yellow color necessary to produce the desired effect for the outer walls of the building, without having the walls of the building, without having the color uneven. It was thought best by some to leave the walls in the natural grayish-white of the cement. Mr. Hunt, the architect, was summoned and consulted. He stated that the color will vary a little, but not materially. He is willing to risk it. Upon motion of Judge Silent, the question of color was left to Mr. Forman. According to the original design, as called for in the contract, the walls are to be of a buff terra-cotta color. Mr. Forman reported that no more Mr. Forman reported that no more space can be given in the Mechanical Arts building for a mineral exhibit, owing to the already cramped condition. Mr. Wiggins stated that there will be plenty of room for all minerals in the South-ern California building's galleries. Mr.

A letter was read by the secretary, to the effect that the San Diego Chamber of Commerce will accept a room in the Midwinter Fair building, and furnish the same as headquarters for the chamber, without expense to the Southern California Association. A letter of similar purport was signed by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce. Considerable dispussion followed this proposition, and the prevailing sentiment seemed against it. No definite action was taken.

San Bernardino county made a proposition to put in a 20x30 space to a natural history exhibit of the birds of Southern California, furnishing at the same time a custodian whose salary shall be pad by the association. The matter was referred to Mr. Wigzins who is to investigate and see what is best to be done.

The secretary was instructed to issue a call to the orange-growers of Southern California at an early day, to decide upon the date of holding the citrus fair, the awards, etc.

SOLDIERS' HOME.

The Library as It is-Suggestions-Other Home Notes.

The discusion of the library question as applicable to the Soldiers' Home, is timely, and the suggestions of Sat-urday's Times for replenishing the urday's - Times for replenishing the book stock is generally indorsed by the home people. In order that it may be intelligently acted upon, a little more light upon the library, as it is, will certainly not be out of place. The records in the hands of Librarian John M. Fay credit the library with 711 volumes, all told. Of these one hundred are war records, chiefly valuable as references only. Thirty-nine and the poetical works, twenty-five are bound volumes of magazines. There is a Dickens series complete, and Shakespeare the same. For the rest, they comprise a cosmopolitan lot, mostly of fiction—a stray vlume or two of Elliott, thumbed and reread, a book or two from Scott, one or two of Verne's works, memoirs of Grant and other prominent Americans, and odds and ends indescribable.

In line of newspapers the library is prestly well fixed.

prominent Americans, and odds and ends indescribable.

In line of newspapers the library is pretty well fixed, with twenty-five dailies of the most desirable sort—Los Angeles Times and local contempporaries, Chicago Tribune and Inter Ocean, New York Press and Times, and the Call only, from San Francisco. Then there are half a hundred weeklies, but a sorry dearth of periodicals.

The library occupies large, sunny apartments in the second story of the headquarters building. It has capacity for limitless donations of good books and current literature. The volumes are well cared for, nicely arranged and always available. Fiction is the favorite reading, though there are not wanting in the home solid readers who call for the best that is to be had. As a sample of these, there is one man whose record for the year past reaches one book for every two days, and he has taken the best and read to advantage.

Rellef Corps and Circles have contributed the bulk of the present supply. The leading conof the present supply. The leading con-tribution other than those was the one hundred volumes standard fiction, not magazines, sent by the Mercantile Library of San Francisco.

ARIZONA NEWS.

Important Decision in a Landgrant Case.

The Title to the Land of Nogales Cleared-Arizona Lemons — Thin-skinned and Otherwise Recommended-Convicts Put at Work.

Special Correspondence of The Times.

TUCSON, Dec. 14.—The Court of Private Land Claims, in session here for several days, tonight handed down a decision of greatest importance to Southern Arizona. It decides the Nogales de Elias land grant not valid in Arizona. Nogales has a real estate valuation, according to the Assessor's record, of $300,000. This is at the least the amount involved. The grant, made in 1843, to Jose Elias and his parents, was claimed by heirs and purchasers of their claims. Had the court sustained their claims they would have made the property-owners of Nogales—squatters they really were—pay well for the land they occupied. The decision, however, makes the land the property of the Government. Now, the town authorities of Nogales will purchase the townsite of the Government, and the property-holders will settle, each his pro rata. The decision will cause Nogales to go forward with great strides. Ever since the inception of the town it has been darkened by the great land-grant cloud. Every one feared to improve, as it might be for others. The decision was unexpected and startling. The court simply held that the grant was one of quantity, and not of boundaries. The land sold was seven and one-half sitios and two scant caballerias—approximtely, thirty-two thousand six hundred acres. The starting point for measurements was the Casita ranch, twelve miles south of the international line. According to surveys, the land of the area specified would not reach to the Arizona border at all, so that the whole grant was in Mexico, and of no effect in Arizona.

ARIZONA LEMONS. Special Correspondence of The Times. ARIZONA LEMONS

Says the Phoenix Herald: This year lemon orchards are beginning to show what they will do in this valley. M. W. Ward, has out 500 lemon trees just below the Arizona falls, and today brought to town a box of 100 lemons, as nice fruit as one ever laid eyes on. The skin is remarkably thin, and the fruit is full of Juice. Nothing finer has ever been seen in this market. The box Mr. Ward brought in today will be forwarded to the East by ex-Gov. Murphy to parties who will be interested in this part of the country. The fruit shows for itself, and thoroughly demonstrates that it is a success in the orange belt of the valley. The trees on which this fruit matured stood the frost of two years ago splendidly, and is proof positive of what can be done in the way of the citrus fruit in this valley. Says the Phoenix Herald: This year

AN INDUSTRY FOR CONVICTS. AN INDUSTRY FOR CONVICTS.

The inmates of Yuma Prison have, under the management of Superintendent Gates, been put at the manufacture of brooms, chairs and shoes. The output will not be allowed to compete with that of Arizona workingmen. Some of the products will shortly be sent to the Territorial Insane Asylum. AN EXPERIENCE WITH MOUNTAIN LIONS.

AN EXPERIENCE WITH MOUNTAIN LIONS.

Postmaster Cartier of Walnut Grove states that mountain lions are becoming a great nuisance in that section, and, owing to the depredations of those animals, the raising of colts is one of the industries of the pasts People tried the often-suggested remedy of placing bells on the colts, but the bells had no terrors for the lions, and, in many cases, the owners never again saw either bells or colts. The lions have now turned their attention to the droves of domestic hogs which range in that section, with a result that the hogs have become so wild that it is as easy to go out and kill a deer as to get one of these hogs. A few days ago, William Pierce put out some poison for lions. He went out the next day, and found his fine dog lying dead near the spot, and saw a large lion standing a short distance off watching him. He put more poison into the carcass of the dog, and had the satisfaction, the next morning, of finding the dead body of a lion near by, although not the lion he had seen. The dog's bones were picked clean.

ALMOST LYNCHED.

ALMOST LYNCHED. A man named Bartholdi, living near Prescott, who was, at least, brutally careless in disposing of the remains careless in disposing of the remains of his new-born child, has since had a rough time of it. He was charged with the murder of the child. The remains could not be found. He said he took the little body out in a powder box, and threw it under some brush near by. He could not produce the body, however. He was arrested for murder, but subsequently released. Monday evening he rushed into town excited, with the marks of a rope around his neck. He declared that a party of his neighbors hung him up to a tree, when his wife came to his rescue. Several shots were fired. Barthold was, at last reports, making efforts to get warrants for his assailants.

A Mojave-county man found bees will cure rheumatism. He makes a testimonial that he has been a severe sufferer from the painful attacks of the dread disease for the past eight months. While hobbling about he removed a hive of bees. Quicker than thought, the air was nothing but a buzzing, stinging mass. But quicker than that, there was no Mr. Boner in sight. His rheumatism had gone. Col. Barlow of the boundary survey was thrown from his horse a few days ago, resulting in a broken arm and bruises. He has gone to San Diego, where his family are.

MY FIRST BOOK.

By Frank R. Stockton

Specially Contributed to The Times My first boo's was a long time in greating; it came up like a plant by the way-side of ordinary avocation, and put forth but a few leaves at a times, and when at last it budded there was good reason to doubt whether or not it really intended to blossom. But it did blossom in red, brown, green and blue, and of its colors I shall speak again.

It was a book for young people and was called "Ting-a-Ling." It was made up of fairy stories and when these first went out, each by itself, to seek a place in the field of current literature, it was not all certain that they would ever find such a place. The fairies who figured in these tales were not like ordinary fairies. They went, as it were, like strangers or foreigners seeking admission into a realm where they were not known and where their rights of residence were not promptly recog-

There were various objections to the the creatures whose adventures were recorded in the stories. Although they were very small indeed, generally not more than an inch or two high, they time a young man, a very intimate friend of mine, fell in love. The lady upon whom his affections were fixed was also my friend, and as they both lived very near me, and as I saw them often. I took a great interest in their love affair, weich progressed most happily. My constant observation of this loving couple and my sympathetic ap-preciation of their affection produced an effect upon me which showed itself in the story I was writing. This I called "The Golden Angel," and it was called "The Golden Angel," and it was an out-and-out fairy love tale. I worked at it with great satisfaction, deriving continual inspiration from my intercourse with my lover friends.

The young man was of a poetic and romantic turn of mind, with a broad love for literature, and had always taken a great interest in my work. It taken a great interest in my work. It was to him, therefore, that I submitted my new story as soon as it. was finished. Even if he had never before cared for what I had written he would care for this, for his amorous soul could not this, for his amorties soul could not help responding to the kindred senti-ments of the tale.

When he returned the manuscript to me his remarks were brief and to the effect that it was entirely unlike any-thing I had yet written and that it made him sick. He would not have believed that I had produced anything so namby-pamby and dreary as this account of the foolish attachment of two impossibili-people, such as Mr. Gladstone or Emin Pasha.

In fact, it was this realism which gave In fact, it was this realism which gave rise to the question as to their right to call themselves fairies. To be sure, if they were properly looked at, it was easy to see that they were veritable pigwidgeons. They rode upon grasshoppers and butterflies; they danced in rings upon the moonlit turf; they took that keen interest in the affairs of mortal relationship of physics of fairies. tals which is characteristic of fairies, and, what is more, with clear, honest eyes and countenances expressive of truthful frankness they boldly asserted that they were fairies. If they had been asked if, in their inner conscious-ness, they did not believe that not only were they formed like ordinary human beings, though on a very tiny scale, but that their diminutive minds were in-fused with the same emotions, hopes, fears and desires as those which we that they self, and so, without reference to the dutles of my fellow creatures I performed my duty toward this book so far as I was almpossible to observe them without perceiving that these were very much the same as those of real people, though so greatly diminished in size, bearing the same proportion to us that a dragon fly bears to a horse.

It was very natural, therefore, that Ting-a-Ling, who was the hero of these stories, and all his little friends and enemies who wore clothes, resented injuries, were grateful for benefits and rolled their gardens with rollers no bigger than firecrackers, should have things happen to them not unlike the things which happen to us, and do things very like the things we do, and that, if we took any interest in them at all it would be a sympathetic one and unlike the interest we take in that other class of fairy creatures with short skifts and butter-

So, laden with realism and p actical scatures, these stories went out into the field of current literature to see if they could get themselves published. They succeeded, but the editor who was the succeeded, but the editor who was the succeeded, but the editor who was were so backward in coming forward, but his argument did not strike me as a soft of the succeeded, but the editor who was the succeeded who the suc features, these stories went out into the field of current literature to see if they could get themselves published.

When these Ting-a-Ling stories had been published one at a time I set to work upon a story of a very different kind. This was a serial story for young people, containing the adventures of real boys and girls, and it ran for a year in the same magazine that had published the fairy tales. It was called "The House that Jack Built," and when people, containing the adventures of real boys and girls, and it ran for a year in the same magazine that had published the fairy tales. It was called "The House that Jack Built," and when it had finished its periodical career I thought it would be a very good thing to have it published as a book, and I madea proposition to that effect to the firm which published as a book, and I madea proposition to that effect to the firm which published the magazine. In due course of time I receive a reply in which the publishers stated that they were willing to publish a book for me, but that if they did so, they would prefer that such book should contain the Ting-a-Ling tales, and net the serial story.

This satisfied all requirements, and not long after its completion the book was published.

I was far away in the backwoods of Virginia when I received the first copy of my first book. And what author has ever forgotten the first copy of his first book? Mine was of handsome proportions, bound in crimson cloth and embellished with four glittering plumes. It was delicated illustrated beautifully. It was delicately illustrated, beautifully printed and could imagine no home which would not be made brighter by the possession of that book, even were it never read.

The unanimity of feeling in this respect between myself and the English speaking public was not immediately manifested, but I have always been a believer in the adding that I you really want a thing done, you must do it yourself, and so, without reference to the duties of my fellow granters.

They succeeded, but the editor who was kind enough to take them under his protection, would not allow them to go about deceiving people, so he labeled them "Make believe fairy tales."

After that, of course everybody knew just what they were.

When these Ting-a-Ling stories had

THE HIT OF CHRISTMAS TIDE.

It tells of the Natai Day, the most joyous festival of the Christian Church, when the bells of the stepples ring out to the grad sky the message of the Heraid Angels. And the scampering of tiny tots for stockings and gifts by the chimney corner. These are the stories of the North, South, West, East; stories for Youths and Maidens, Fathers and Mothers. Told in the memories of more than half a hundred noted men and women in stray recoil otions written and signed by themselves. Here are the names of some of the famous story-tellers.

In no section of town is improvement and growth more strongly marked than on Raymond and Summit avenues from Walnut street to the north city limit. The work of laying a continuous ce-ment walk on the west side of Raymond avenue, between Walnut and Villa streets, is almost completed, and today a petition will be presented to the Council to order like work on the east side of the thorougfare. From Villa street north the avenue is properly raded, curbed and guttered with cob graded, curbed and guttered with cob-blestones. An agreement has been en-tered into by the property-owners to widen the avenue five feet on the west side, between Walnut and Locust streets. This will give it a uniform width north of Colorado street, and will permit of the extension of the cement walks in a straight line south from Walnut street to Colorado. The nec-essary legal proceedings will, it is ex-pected, be instituted by the Council today.

Besides these street improvements, a surprising number of new and hand-some residences are building on both Raymond and Summit; hitherto-neg-contring attention and lected lots are receiving attention and everywhere a progressive spirit mani-fests itself, which property-owners in some other sections of town might respondence, a week or more ago, the people are taking steps to resent the insults heaped upon them by D. M. Baker, who, as president of the Board of Library Trustees, has shown himself to be wholly unfit for the position he holds. The people have become aroused over the effort of Mr. Baker to crowd the tables of the free reading-rooms with literature of a questionable lass, and to remove from the tables all publications of a denominational or Christian bearing. This attempt is considered by the people as a highconsidered by the people as a high-handed outrage and suicidal to the moral interests of the community. Not only the Christian element, but the people, almost as a whole, are denoun-cing the president's actions, and, from present indications, there is a possibil-ity that the unpopular president will be impeached by the people of the city and vicinity at large.

Vigorous Protest Against D. M. Baker's Action.

His Course in Regard to the Public Librar; Causing Much Adverse Criticism-Personals.

people, almost as a whole, are denouncing the president's actions, and, from present indications, there is a possibility that the unpopular president will be impeached by the people of the city and vicinity at large.

The local press has taken up the fight, and goes after the president and his "organ," the Standard, in a very decided way. The Orange County Herald publishes Baker's objections to the Christian publications appearing on the library tables, and then follows up with the following truthful paragraph:

"Mr. Baker's protest speaks for itself, and no remarks are necessary. It neither contains sense, argument nor truth. It is simply a tirade of meaningless abuse against the Christian religion, which will only be strengthened and benefited by such vulgar attacks. It is unfortunate, however, that Santa Ana has a citizen—a newspaper editor—who will seek notoriety by resorting to such an ill-advised attack upon so good a cause, and is not willing to grant to others the right he claims for himself—to think as he pleases."

Again, it says editorially, that "our contemporary, D. M. Baker, who is unfortunately one of the trustees, has carried his fanatical views too far in this matter. His objections to certain periodicals are printed in another column, and certainly require no comment.

We should all believe in common decency, the laws of which Mr. Baker has frequently violated as a library trustee. If he is, as he claims, a "free thinker," consistency would seem to demand of him to allow other people to follow their respective beliefs, without terming them idiots and fools if their creed does not harmonize with his own. Mr. Baker has taken the position that any publication which is permitted to pass through the mails, should be accepted, if offered, at the library, and placed within the reach of all its patrons. Such a theory is surprising, coming from a man of Mr. Baker's intelligence. There can be no doubt that foul literature has done as much to corrupt the minds of the young people of America as any other brary, but it should always be a clean and wholesome one."

Under the head, "A Disgrace to Santa Ana," in the Daily Blade appears the following paragraph in regard to Mr. Baker and his attempt to prostitute the reading-rooms of the free public the reading-rooms of the free public library:

"Editor Baker comes to the rescue of President Baker of the free library trustees and complains that the Blade 'piltched into' him because he 'objected' to all the religious publications on the reading tables.' Not at all, Mr. Baker; the Blade is not in the least concerned over your religious or irreligious prefer-reading tables. Not at all, Mr. Baker; the Blade is not in the least concerned over your religious or irreligious preferences. Our objection was grounded on the fact that you are a disgrace to the city of Santa Ana in your capacity of president of the ECArd of Trustees, and that you advertise that disgrace by the manner of your protest on file in the library. We characterized that protest as 'ribald' and smelling of the barroom, but it was not, nevertheless, a surprise to those who know your habits. When a man attends a meeting of a public body as its president, in a more or less fuddled condition, smoking a filthy clay pipe, and behaving generally like a barroom loafer, he will not be regarded as a credit to the city whose misfortune it is that he happens by some accident to represent, as president of one of its public bodies. If such a man would recognize his own offensiveness to the decent citizens of the town by keeping as much in the background as possible, he might at least be ignored, but when he comes forward with foul language to incult the religious feelings of the people of the community he will hear from the Blade at least, even if at the risk of being made a target for some of the mauldin abuse. We repeat that he is a disgrace to Santa Ana."

SOME GRAND JURY RESULTS. Although the report of the grand jury was only filed Saturday, there are already results accruing from the voluminous document. It may now be voluminous document. It may now be stated that, in all probability there are other results that will soon be made public, and which will, no doubt, make some very intersting reading. But that which is already to the surface are the citations that have been issued to Justice of the Peace George E. Freeman and Constable Preble, who have been ordered to appear before the Superior Court January 5, 1894, to show cause why their offices should not be discontinued. This condition of affairs is evidently the result of the attitude of the above named justice of the peace and constable in the matter of the recent handling of tramps. Surprises may now be looked for daily as the result of the grand jury's deliberations.

SANTA ANA BREVITIES.

The Orange and El Modena schools have close until after the holidays.

If the tramps who now infest so many portions of Santa Ana, do not want to work, they had better steer clear of Santa Ana and Orange county. It is now becoming a very familiar sight to see the deputy sheriffs line up their gangs of "hobos" every morning, and march to the Santa Ana river-bed, two and one-half miles west of this city, where they are put to work digging stumps and shoveling quicksand out of the river's bed.

By an error of the "make-up" a paragraph which should have followed under the sub-head. "Five Tramps Escape," was transposed, and appeared under the sub-head of the "Keeley League Concert," causing an annoying "break."

Four more "hobos" have tired of SANTA ANA BREVITIES.

ANAIDEM.

The recommendation of the grand jury, as published in Sunday's Times, that the county road between this city and the Southern Facific bridge over the Santa Ana River be graded and graveled, is one that will meet the approval of every resident of this end of the county. This road is one of the most traveled in the county, and it has always been in a disgraceful condition, especially in summer, although considerable money has been spent (or rather misspent) on it in years past. The money that it would cost to put this road in first-class condition would be well spent, and as business of various kinds take our people almost daily to the county seat, and this is the most direct roadway between the north and south sections of the county, it is an improvement that our taxpayers can well, in justice, ask.

Whether their acts of idleness are inspired by the pres-ence of so many professionally unem-ployed, or from an inherent desire to be conspicuously idle, is not apparent, but there are scores of staring, spit-ting men and boys gathering upon the sidewalks at Third and E and Third and D streets, obstructing the side-walks to such a degree that it is nec-essary, sometimes, for ladies to take the street to pass by and save their skirts from the expectorations upon the pave-ments and their ears from the vulgar and obscene remarks so lavishly in-dulged in by these groups. The "move on" ordinance ought to be enforced, and the sidewalks kept clear of these

SAN BERNARDINO, Dec. 15, 1893.—
(To the Editor of The Times.) There are those who complained bitterly of The Times for publishing accounts of misdemeanors, crimes and disreputable actions taking place in this city, and who maintain that no word, save that of praise, should ever find expression in your paper. They would, it seems, rather have the city unknown outside the county than have its shortcomings brought to light, and in that way eliminated. Per contra, one of the most prominent business men of the city remarked the other day, while conversing upon this subject: "I don't blame the correspondent of The Times one bit for showing up the bad things in this city, and he don't give it to the guilty ones half enough. There are a lot of mossbacks in this place whose lives are rotten, and they don't want to be shown up. They are always asking help of the merchants, and always kicking at our efforts to advance the interests of the city. They are the worst lot of kickers I ever saw." Fortunately for San Bernardino, these chronic complainers are rapidly disappearing, and they can no longer prevent the advancement of the city, which, from its location and the character of the men who dominate it, is appearing, and they can no longer prevent the advancement of the city, which, from its location and the character of the men who dominate it, is open the same and the region lying east of Loa Angeles. There is no other city of 9000 inhabitants upon this Coast that can boast of 100 arc lights to illuminate its streets, and none that has made such progress in paving within the past two years as has San Bernardino. The public spirit shown in these things, and in securing a water supply and advancement and element of reactionists and a criminal element, can not be denied. Their presence is taken advantage of the interests of the public schools, and providing school buildings, is most commendable. But the fact that there is an element of reactionists and a criminal element, Parties are preparing to burn a large kiln of brick near the Southern Pacific depot, to supply the present lively demand for building material.

Broadway is rapidly becoming the choicest residence portion of our city. More nice residence have been erected on that street in the past three years than in any other portion of town. The new residences of H. A. Stough and J. Fletcher are nearing completion. and J. Fletcher are nearing completion.

The recently-organized Sunday-school of the Methodist Church is proving successful, both as to attendance and interest taken. B. V. Garwood is the efficient superintendent.

Sunday was a lovely day—one of the most perfect and typical Southern Callifornia winter days of the season. The attendance at the various churches was large.

D. S. Hill, for some years the efficient agent of the Santa Fe at this point, is about to make a change to some other station, hoping thus to improve his health. The Jury Said Quits—A Successful Fair— Local News Notes.

Justice Willis and a jury gave up a large part of Saturday to hearing the evidence and argument in the civil suit of D. Bullis vs. Mrs. A. P. Hammond, evidence and argument in the civil and of D. Bullis vs. Mrs. A. P. Hammond, wherein plaintiff sought to recover something like $115. on acount. Defendant is set up a counter-claim for over twice the amount, and the case was a hardfought one from start to finish. The jury took time for deliberation and concluded it was a stand-off. A verdict was brought in accordingly, by which neither party recovers anything, and, to make it still more even, it was determined that the costs be equally divided between the litigants.

The bazar by the Episcopal ladies closed with a climatic success, Saturday evening. The operetta, "Golden Hair," was an attractive feature of the fair, and was creditably rendered under the management of Mr. Dickinson. Contributions to the success of the bazar were liberally made by the superintendents of the various departments—Mrs. Kimball at the flower booth, Mrs. Soule and the habsses Stanwood at the fancy table, Mrs. Tollers and Mrs. Merlin-Jones with the substantial refreshments, and by the managers and assistants generally. The entire series of entertainments passed without marring incident, and the results are highly satisfactory to all concerned.

Manager Grover and his company drew good business for their three nights at Steere's Operahouse, closing before a large andlence with "Wolves of New York," Saturday night.

The officers-elect of Fort Fisher W.R.C., No. 41, for the ensuing year are: President, Ruth A. Hart; treasurer, Hannah Harris; S.V.P., Eliza Barackman; J.N.P., Emma Heimer; chaplain, S. A. Elliott; conductor, Nellie Chamberlain; guard, Rebecca Culp; delegate to department convention, Mary Forsythe; alternate, Elizabeth Dodge, Mrs. Vawter's condition is practically and wild escapades. An example of this kind was shown at the time of the recent races, when a 'busload of a dozen attended from Riverside, several of whom conducted themselves in such a manner, by drinking and associating with lewd women, as to bring disgrace upon the whole crowd, and the city from which they came. But, in conversing with old residents upon these matters, I learn that the objectionable characters are rapidly disappearing, and the visits of those from other cities, to "have a time," are diminishing in frequency, and in the deep coloring of the "time."

Of course, the whole community is not to be condemned for the sins of a few, and the exposing and segregating process, when done by a courageous and honest newspaper, is a true service to the city. I sustain The Times in its course.

The production of that beautiful and soul-inspiring oratorio, the "Messiah," next Friday evening, promises to be an occasion long to be remembered not alone in the musical circles of Los Angealone in the musical circles of Los Angeles, but among all intelligent and refined people, who, by their presence, will encourage the rendition of the highest class of music. Believing that their efforts would be appreciated, the Los Angeles Oratorio Society has gone to an expense of nearly $800 in order to present this sublime work in the grandest possible manner. No expense have been spared in getting the most eminent soloists, a chorus of 150 of the choicest voices, and m orchestra of unusual strength and orchestra of unusual strength and ability. One thousand extra chairs have been placed in Simpson Tabernacle. These sea is can be had for 50 cents. None of them are over sixty feet from and all in blain view of the chorus. Although the sale of tickets has been very large, it is necessary, in order for the society to meet its obligations promptly, that a most generous support be given, which Los Angeles will surely do. Hewes' Honest, High Art, Handsome Shoe Stock

Now being sold at our establishment.

We made the purchase of the Hewes stock forthe reason that we deemed it prudent by one grand attempt to gather in the fine trade of Los Angeles. Mr. Hewes kept only the finest grades of footwear, and every purchaser of fine shoes was compelled to go to his establishment if the finest was what they were seeking for. Knowing this to be the case, we purchased the stock in order to bring to our stores the best trade of the town. As a special inducement we will offer the stock at the price we paid for it, 65c on the $1. Our aim is not to take any advantage of this meritorious purchase, but to give it to our patrons, new ones and old ones.

Yesterday's sale taxed the utmost capacity of our twenty salespeople, and we beg to apologize to the great numbers who probably went away unattended. We have now placed the men's shoes in the south aisleway, giving more room, and in fact our entire shoe department to Ladies' Shoes. We will dwell upon the fine line of Wright & Peters' Goods, Dugan & Hudson's, and J. S. Turner's Shoes, all the finest makes in the United States; and to buy a pair means a constant customer for us or any other dealer who keeps them. At the prices this elegant footwear is marked, whereby we give Hewes $5 Shoes for $3.25, Hewes $6 Shoes for $3.90, Hewes $7 for $4.55, there will be no doubt but what every person needing Shoes for the next thirty days will do themselves an injustice if they do not visit this mammoth stock and take advantage of our desire to give them the benefit of the bargain we procured.

In conclusion, we desire to state that what we say above is not merely talk or printer's ink, but the real bonafide and honest intention of a merchant aiming to get the fine trade through the medium of cutting prices as a magnet to attract at one moment what would probably take years in any other way to accomplish.

GRIDER & DOW'S Subdivision of the Fletcher Tract.

This beautiful tract, bounded by I2th street and Stanford avenue (80 feet wide,) ten minutes walk of the Postoffice, one block of the finest public school in Los Angeles, one block of electric cars, streets graded, water piped, lots covered with orange and other fruit trees 25 years old. These lots are 50 X 140 to 20-foot alley.

They will be offered for sale as soon as the survey is made and maps are out (within five days) at one-half their cash value. This great sacrifice will be made to clear off a certain indebtedness. Don't buy until you see these fine lots. For maps and particulars see
